The clock in the steeple of the Kawaiahao Church needs a little touching up. An application of black paint and gold bronze would improve the looks of the face wonderfully.

There was a wahine, O my!
Who had a young man in her eye—
She fed him on poi
And called him her boy
Whenever he went for old rye.

M. Kaileanu was gently led into the police court room yesterday morning when he was impressively sentenced by Judge Bickerton to twenty days private retirement at the country residence of Captain Tripp.

All people who drink water habitually had better go to the Government building to-day and settle up their water rates. Some of the "big bugs" of Capital Honolulu have not paid for five years—so the records say.

There will be a moonlight concert on Monday evening at Emma Square.

Where is the committee of the Society of Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. They should certainly interest themselves as to the welfare of the poor, lame and sick horses that are driven about the streets of Honolulu hitched to express of Chinamen, natives and even white drivers.

When the W. G. Hall went on her last trip the King did not land at Kailua as he expected on the way out, but kindly escorted the Princess and party to Kaawaloa and afterwards returned to Kailua. Last Monday and Tuesday before returning to Honolulu His Majesty paid another visit to Kaawaloa.

Union Service under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. will be held in the Fort Street Church at 7:30 p. m. to-morrow. An address will be delivered by Major H. C. Dane. Subject: "Along the Footsteps of St. Paul." Collection will be taken for the native Greek missionary in whom the Major is especially interested.

At half-past three o'clock yesterday afternoon two drunken Kanakas were riding along King street. When near Nuuanu street one of them fell from his horse and was cut and bruised about the head. He was taken to the Police Station where he properly attended to, and will soon be able to run another bottle of gin to earth.

The rubbish is being cleared away from in front of the Chinese Club building to make way for the plasterers. Stone tablets for the front of the club house which were ordered from China and will be cut in Chinese characters, will arrive by the bark Mount Lebanon, which sailed from Hongkong on the 15th of last July.

The Hawaiian Mission Children's Society will meet at the residence of Mr. J. A. Hopper, Saturday evening, September 19, 1885. In place of the usual literary exercises Major H. C. Yesterday afternoon Marshall Soper and Officer Fihlbergh armed with search warrants searched the premises of Mr. Charles Hoyt, on the corner of King and Alakea streets for opium, which was supposed to be secreted there. In the room of a lodger named W. H. Pond, twenty-four tins were found and one more tin was found in the room of Wm. King upon the same premises. Both men were arrested, taken to the Station House and locked up.

Last Wednesday evening about eight o'clock while three gentlemen were going along Punchbowl street on their way to the steamer Kinau, one of them observed a brilliant star about twice the size of the planet Venus, located in the southwestern sky at an elevation of about ten degrees. As the party watched it they observed that it changed from a dull red to a brilliant blue color and that it was slowly descending towards the horizon. It remained in sight about six minutes, as near as the party could judge, and finally disappeared behind a mass of dark clouds about one degree above the ocean.

They say that eggs are getting dearer every day; that Kensington painting is all the rage; that the first ingredient in conversation is truth, the next good sense, the third good humor, and the fourth wit; that the wandering minstrels in Honolulu are getting to be a nuisance; that in three days the moon will be full; that next Friday evening there will be a carnival masquerade and May pole dance at the Yosemite Skating Rink; that to enjoy a salt water bath at home one should first to make a C., and then have a dash under it; and that happy is the man who gets his dumps without laboring.

Yesterday morning at a quarter past ten o'clock as Road Supervisor Hart and Thomas Lucas were turning into Merchant street at the corner of Fort, riding in Mr. Hart's buggy, one of the hind wheels dished and the buggy suddenly dropped to the ground. The horse started to run when Billy Moore ran into the middle of the street and caught him by the bit. Neither of the gentlemen were thrown out by the fall. The horse was unhitched and three policemen carried the buggy to one side of the street until it was removed. The buggy was the same one that was run away with by Mr. Hart's horse the day before yesterday; and the wheel which dished yesterday had most probably been strained before. Mr. Hart will please accept our sincere thanks for conveniently bringing this item to our very door; the day before he gave us considerable trouble by having his runaway in a distant portion of the city.

Mr. F. L. Clark brought into the office yesterday a card on which was mounted the fronds of some ferns which grow only on the slopes, and in the crater of Haleakala. They are the ASPIDIUM HAWAIIENSE, (so named from its only known habitat); DAVALLIA ALEXANDRI, named in honor of Professor W. D. Alexander and the ASPLENIUM TRICHOMES. The first named is of a very graceful shape and habit of growth the rather narrow fronds being covered with fine brown scales, giving it a soft appearance, and the seedling being prostrate, the fern is a well marked variety. The Davallia is a very elegant with slender pinnules whose edge are cut into segments that bear the seedling on their blunt ends. Its habit of growth, is very graceful, the many fronds being clustered together into a rich plume. The Aspidium, though not peculiar to Haleakala, is found there in the greatest abundance, its bunches of little fronds peeping from snug hiding places in the rough lava, or springing from the cracks in the cliffs. These fine ferns Mr. Clarke is now growing in his fernery, and hopes to be able to acclimatize them in this locality.

Major Dane delivered his second lecture at the Y. M. C. A. Hall last night on "The Great Naval Battles of the Rebellion" to a large and appreciative audience. Major Dane's wonderful descriptive powers were intensified from the fact that he took part in one of the battles described. The destruction of the Confederate Merrimac by the U. S. Monitor was a vivid piece of word painting and was loudly applauded.

The capture of New Orleans, from the heat of the battle to the handing up of the keys of the city held the audience in rapt attention. The lecturer constantly kept before the large audience the fact that a guiding power was watching the redemption of the young Republic. The lecturer commented freely upon the international relations existing between the United States and other nations and especially dwelt upon the attitudes of Russia, France and England during that period. The description of the Russian fleet before New York was a practical illustration of international feeling. The next lecture will be given either next Thursday or Friday as will be announced hereafter.
